

A modern dining room with a large, rustic wooden table and several white upholstered chairs. The table is set with five small potted plants. Above the table hang five large, round, wicker pendant lights. The ceiling features exposed wooden beams and a thatched texture. In the background, there is a large window offering a view of the ocean and a balcony with a green railing. To the right, there are built-in wooden shelves displaying various decorative items.

A photograph of three potted plants on a wooden table. The plants have long, thin, green leaves. They are in light-colored, textured ceramic pots with a repeating heart-like pattern. The pots are arranged in a row, with the one in the middle being the most prominent. The background is slightly blurred, showing more of the same plants and a hint of a window.
